

Stephany Barreda Bezerra Da Silva, Spain

Why neurology?

It is not just about movement disorders, it is about running a race for the first time.

It is not just about vegetative nervous system disorders, it is about the adrenaline of jumping into the sea on a summer day.

It is not just about sleeping disorders, it is about being able to have a good night's sleep in your own bed, after having been away.

It is not just about touch, it is about feeling, being that given hug when you most need it.

It is not just about sight, it is about witnessing your daughter's wedding.

It is not just about smell, it is about the scent of your mum's baking.

It is not just about hearing, it is about singing and listening to your favorite song in the car.

It is not just about development disorders, it is about your baby's first steps and words.

It is not just about degenerative disorders, it is about remembering the names of your relatives.

It is not just about pain medicine, it is about seeing you smiling again.

It is not just about why, it is about how: how neurology can change people's lives.